Wagner said the closed-door session with the engineers was called to discuss work Burke and Associates completed on Main Street last year.

Bay school board honors settlement

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
In accordance with a recent out-of-court settlement, the Bay St. Louis School District Board of Trustees Monday night officially repealed Policy 18, adopted a new document copying policy, paid a settlement to plaintiffs and fees to its own attorney.

The settlement was the result of a $20,000 civil rights violation damage suit filed against the board Aug. 14, 1979 by the North Bay Parent-Teacher Organization; the Bay St. Louis Local, American Federation of Teachers; and several school patrons.

The repealed policy listed a 'chain-of-command' a patron or teacher must follow to be placed on the board's agenda and barred organizational representatives from addressing the trustee group.

A summary of the new board records inspection and copying policy says, "A requesting party shall receive copies upon payment and that the requesting party is entitled to receive the copies the day after the request, unless the request is 'unduly burdensome.'"

Board of Trustees Attorney Lucien Gex said, "In accordance with the terms of the out-of-court settlement we will pay the plaintiffs and their Attorney Gerald Blessey of Biloxi $3,500."

"This money will be placed in the North Bay Air Conditioning Fund at Gulf National Bank," Gex explained after the meeting.

The Bay trustees also agreed to pay its attorney $7,500 in fees.

Continental Insurance Co. will pay $2,300 of those costs. The board will have to pay a $2,500 deductible difference," Gex added.

The trustees also approved a 'summer maintenance and renovation program' submitted by Superintendent J.D. McCulloch.

will have to pay for it ourselves," McCulloch said.

"It wouldn't cost too much because it's just two small areas," McCulloch added.

Trustee James Ginn asked, "If this is not a leak, is this problem going to reoccur?"

McCulloch replied, "This has never happened before, but has come about now following all of the rain we've had."

"Unless we find a leaking pipe, the insurance company will be hesitant to pay for it, but it's not a large area," McCulloch reiterated.

Ginn stated, "My thought is if we could put a sealer coat for the future or something to keep this problem from reoccurring."

McCulloch also reported, "The state inspector with the Educational Finance Commission, Roofer Vanshultz Dillmann and Architect Fred Wagner inspected the roof on the gym and cafeteria at Bay Senior High School."

"Wagner suggested repairing the roof of the gym, repairing a portion of the roof on the main building and reroofing the entire cafeteria," McCulloch said.

"EFC will take care of the cafeteria roofing project which will cost $9,000-$10,000," the superintendent stated.

"In the other areas the patchwork will be taken care in the maintenance budget and will run $500-$1,000," McCulloch added.

Ginn inquired, "The roofing work was an estimate and the EFC would take care of funds to replace the cafeteria roof?"

McCulloch replied, "Yes sir and EFC suggested the gym roofing work."

McCulloch also reported, "At North Bay Elementary we want to go into some of the classrooms and make partitions in back of the rooms for school books."

"It will cost about $50 per classroom and we will build these partitions in five or six rooms," McCulloch explained.

"We will also go into different classrooms and restrooms to repaint areas that are needing work. It would need two or three boys to help us and sometimes the teachers like to do this work," the superintendent said.

"We have enough finances to do the work," McCulloch added.

"We also have to continue to cut grass and keep the grounds around the schools in good condition over the summer," McCulloch said.

"Bay Junior High School has requested a trophy case. The only one they have was built in 1939 and this is filled—so we do need another trophy case," McCulloch stated.

"The roofing work and trophy case would have to be advertised for bids," the superintendent added.

Mrs. Joseph (Virginia) Gex, board president, stated, "We will approve individual projects as they go out for bid."

In other business, at the regular 7:30 p.m. meeting at Bay Senior High School, the board:

—Approved teacher and personnel policy changes suggested by a committee (consisting of school board members, administrators and teachers) increasing substitute teacher pay from $20 to $25 per day; substitute teacher pay, for over five days, from $20 to $30 per day; teacher sick leave pay from $20 to $25 per day; and extended sick leave from $10 to $12.50 per day. The changes also stipulate a teacher will not be paid if a teacher fails to fulfill the terms of the signed contract and begins the teacher pay period on the last day of the month that school opens;

—Accepted a $459 bid from Ronnie Fletcher Air-Conditioning and Electrical of Waveland for work on the rooftop air-conditioning unit at North Bay Elementary.

ZONING AND THE LAND OWNER

A good community has zoning laws to protect its homeowners. However, zoning is even more important to the buyers of land who are planning to erect their own home. Some communities may have zoning that will make it impossible for you to build the home you plan. For instance, one community may require a specific amount of acreage for a one-family zone. If you buy a smaller lot than the zoning ordinance requires, you may not be able to build the house you want on the lot you own.

Also, look into the type of home which is allowable in your zoning area. You may plan to build a second floor apartment, possibly for another member of your family or even for rental purposes. If the property is a one-family residential zone, you may be out of luck. No need to worry as long as you check out the zoning before you buy.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at PRESSMAN REALTY, 1332 Hwy. 90 W., Waveland. Phone 467-2224. We're here to help!

Bits 'n pieces

It is sure good to see new black topping at the Bay St. Louis Shopping Center.

We have had several people mention to us the need of repairs to the parking lot. Some were employees of the stores and others were customers.

We know the new black top job will be appreciated by everyone.

Well, this could be the weekend of church fairs.

St. Ann's Catholic Church in Clermont Harbor and Annunciation in Kiln both will be having fairs.

If you are looking for something different, give the barbecued goat a try at Annunciation.

We understand the Seafood dinner at St. Ann's will be something to talk about.

We will try to visit them and hope you will if you get a chance.

It has been our observation on previous occasions when the former governor visited our county for a special occasion to see him rush in, (usually late) and then make a quick exit.

We were very much impressed last Friday with Governor William Winter's appearance at Port Bienville for the ground breaking of Borg-Warner.

Governor Winter arrived before time and after the ground breaking, he and Mrs. Winter took considerable time touring our whole Industrial Park.

It is a good change and we thought we should mention our recognition of the dramatic change in the governor's office.

A MAGNOLIA WELCOME—The State Highway Department recently erected this new welcome sign on US-90 near Pearlgrain replacing the old 'Mississippi Welcomes You' sign which had been on US-90 for many years. The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce recently requested the original sign be repainted or replaced. The old sign was repainted just before it was removed, but we think this replacement is much more attractive for visitors who travel US-90—the southwest entrance to our county and state. We commend the highway department for this improvement and thank the chamber for its attention to our local tourist industry.

Humane Society member decries animal shelter conditions

May 25, 1980
The Sea Coast Echo,
To The Editor

Dear Sir:

This in Re: "The dog bite victim can't get animal quarantined." While I am wholeheartedly in agreement with the dog bite victim, and I say yes, warden is supposed to catch dogs.

But how many concerned citizens have seen the local animal shelter? I'm not taking sides, with the animal warden, but I must admit, he is telling the truth.

Now I want to express my own personal opinion.

If our local animal facility had been adequately equipped with the proper essentials—first space, then separate compartments for isolation based on sex, mange, and contagious diseases; also weather protection, such as heat and cold, maybe there wouldn't be so many dogs roaming our streets.

The dog warden could safely place them in the shelter.

So many newcomers in our county ask me why these facilities are lacking. I tell them its a long story, go to the politicians, who seem not one bit concerned for animal welfare.

They can't seem to understand, that neglect for dumb beasts, eventually touches the human element in our society, in more ways than one.

Now I must make exceptions, in my condemnation of politicians, there are two, who rate highly in their cooperation and help for animals and every other phase of human interest too.

The rest of them write us off as "Bleeding Hearts," "Sob Sisters," expecting them to furnish animal accommodations equal to the hotel Hilton.

Such remarks are ridiculous. We just consider the source, and leave it up to a kind providence above, to take care of such people, and he usually does.

Sincerely,
Eleanor Everett McFie

Canals could be used for disaster assistance

Bay St. Louis

To the Editor:

This letter has no intent to criticize any department of the City of Bay St. Louis or Hancock County in any way, only to be informative, so perhaps in the future we can find a way to correct a mistake.

I was at my camp on Tarpon Drive the night of May 16, 1980, as were other neighbors.

After the storm passed I went outside and found wires on my car, so I could not move. I saw flashing lights all around but none came up Tarpon.

The next day at daylight I walk down Tarpon to Chapman and saw the reason that no help came. Parts of houses and electric poles blocked Tarpon Drive. I offer one suggestion: Tarpon is a dead end street but it has a waterway on both sides. These homes and camps could be checked by water to assist someone in need of help.

There are about seven camps beyond the obstruction of May 16th. No one asked if I need help as of today.

Sincerely,

Parent and school patron laments loss of HNC principal

Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir,

I want to take this opportunity to thank the Hancock North Central principal and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Thad Hoskin, for all the things they have done for our school system.

Adding new subjects to the curriculum to challenge the students academically was a big step forward.

Mr. Hoskin has offered equal opportunities for all the students in the school.

He was not partial to any one school activity; he could have been swayed by unbelievable pressures from individuals with special interest.

He insisted on professional work and attitudes from all employees.

The true professional appreciated this concern and did not consider this a type of harassment.

The list of changes that have been brought by this school man could go on for pages.

He insisted on having advanced math made available for all the students.

At first there were very few students that wanted the challenge.

But Mr. Hoskin did not give up. This challenge and his encouragement paid off.

He knew the teachers he could depend on. These classes are now growing in numbers.

Some of the new subjects to be introduced into the curriculum are Marine Biology, Geology, Speech, Journalism, Track and Baseball.

The athletes can now participate in all sports without harassment.

There is an elementary and junior high band now.

The organized elementary physical education program has reached over 500 students instead of just a few sportsmen students.

There are more students using the gym and football field for physical education, volleyball and other activities.

This was not the way a few years ago. The student council is an active part of the school now. Social promotion has been discouraged.

Hancock North Central now has a good credit rating. This has been brought about by stopping extravagant and irresponsible spending by the athletic departments and other departments.

He has used fair and intelligent spending for all the students.

Decreased skipping of classes and decreased absenteeism came about because of his policies.

Any community or group of people that does not want help cannot be helped.

There are school systems in the state that are waiting for a good school man like Mr. Hoskin.

Our loss will be someone else's gain.

Clermont Harbor Civic Association official asks train speed limits

June 1, 1980
Editor,
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Dear Sir,

Being a resident of Clermont Harbor, I wonder what type disaster has to happen before the County Board of Supervisors will take action to protect us.

On May 30, 1980, a near miss disaster happened in our community when another train derailed.

There are those who say "Don't worry about a near miss," but there are those of us who feel that one day it will not be a near miss but instead a full blown disaster.

There is no telling what cargo trains are carrying through our community. This train was carrying ammonia nitrate, a volatile chemical fertilizer.

I will remember, as a child, the day the "Grand Camp blew up at Texas City. You will recall, the Grand Camp was loaded with ammonia nitrate.

Although I lived a hundred miles from Texas City, the explosion violently shook our house, breaking some windows.

A major explosion would wipe Clermont Harbor off the face of the map!

I see no reason why the Board of Supervisors, at the very least, does not curtail train speeds through Clermont Harbor.

We want action now before it is too late!

Jerry H. Roberts
Secretary
Clermont Harbor

Due to an oversight by the telephone company, Bay St. Louis and Waveland's emergency number was omitted from the telephone book.

It was also omitted from the Newcomers' Guide 1980 published by "The Sun/The Daily Herald," on June 2, IMPROVE U.S.

ECONOMIC POLICY

Washington Report

By REP. TRENT LOTT
5th District, Mississippi

The prime interest rate remains at one of the highest levels since the Civil War.

Unemployment in Mississippi, while below the national average, threatens to rise, even as the rate of inflation in the country approaches 18 percent.

New housing starts in our area are predicted at one of the lowest levels since World War II.

Home mortgage interest rates are up to 17 percent in parts of the country. Savings in banks and thrift institutions were down last year from 1978.

Output per worker hour fell nationally by 2.1 percent from the fourth quarter of 1978 to the fourth quarter of 1979.

While some people attribute such dismal economic statistics to the 1973-74 spurt in the cost of energy, a University of Chicago economics professor brings up an interesting point: If that's so, why is the U.S. the only industrialized nation, except Britain, to suffer such a low growth in productivity?

Output per worker hour in Japan tripled our own. French, Dutch and German output per worker increased at a rate of four times our own, according to Yale Brozen, professor of business economics at the University of Chicago's Graduate School of Business.

In testimony before the Republican Platform Committee, of which I am vice chairman, Brozen cited the following:

—Taxes and inflation are discouraging savers and investors;
—Programs inducing people to work are being expanded; as a result, some people who become unemployed tend to stay unemployed;

—The economy is being strangled by an ever-tightening web of counter-productive government regulations.

Brozen goes on to say that the unprecedented peacetime deficits run by the federal government squeeze private access to the capital necessary for business and industry to expand. That has helped force interest rates higher and is draining the life blood of the housing and machinery industries.

Brozen said the key to more production is a larger supply of capital, and the first step in that direction is to curtail federal spending in both on-budget and off-budget outlays.

The economist also called for more equitable taxation, including the "10-5-3 program." This program would allow depreciation of structures over a 10-year period, depreciation of machinery over a five-year period and depreciation of transportation equipment over three years.

He also came down strongly on the side of less government regulation, suggesting that at least one regulation be eliminated each day, and that at least one federal regulatory agency be abolished each year.

Inflation, if it continues unabated, will make the U.S. dollar worth in 1989 what 13 cents bought in 1967. We must take steps to help ourselves out of the current bleak economic situation and the suggestions made by Yale Brozen make a great deal of sense.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

I run a small department store and have been amazed at just how effective my advertising is. Why, do you think, so many businesses don't advertise? I wonder if they know something I don't know.

Dear DK: Thanks for a leading question. I would have never thought of this approach.

A flip answer is that all stores advertise—if they run regular notices in the newspaper, they are saying they have something to sell; if they don't have ads in the newspaper, they are saying . . .

But, to attempt a specific answer, there are, of course, many reasons for not advertising. But they can generally be reduced to two: 1) the manager or owner doesn't really care enough about his business, or 2) he doesn't know enough about his business to advertise.

And before you argue the point, stop and think how few businessmen you know who seem to be really happy with their job; and then consider how much of this unhappiness may be caused by their inability to do a good job.

Businessmen don't have to pass formal tests to get certified or licensed to practice as do "professionals." There are no minimum standards as we have for teachers and most civil servants.

So, the test of their competency and aptitude comes on the job. Most do apprenticeships in other firms for a bit, and many have formal training in company or public schools and universities.

But, advertising is one of the marks of a professional businessman. There are others, of course, including fresh inventory, latest lines, good service, etc., but advertising is high on the list.

Most consumers are aware of these criteria and will not do much business with firms that don't come up to expectations. They want to get the most they can for their money and they know they won't get it from inept, indifferent places of business.

And, it's not necessarily a matter of price. There are many exceptions to the lowest price being the best buy. Cautious customers are aware of the indicators that a business is stable and successful, and consistent advertising with a professional touch is irrefutable. It builds a general image in the community that cannot be achieved by any other means.

To create a little interest how would it do to vary my advertising frequency, size and design? In A Rut.

Dear AR: It would create about as much interest as changing your store hours everyday and changing your location every week. You might pick up a few new customers, but you will need them to replace the old ones who have become thoroughly confused.

prior arrangements are made, Shaw said.

The ranch was started in 1976 by the Mississippi Sheriff's Association and intentions are that the headquarters for the state will be in Columbus with other homes located throughout the state.

After visiting the ranch, Peterson said, "The boys seem to be well disciplined. The functions are built around ranch living with horse back riding and farming like country living."

"I would like to urge citizens of Hancock to drop in on the ranch if they are ever in Columbus. The support received from our county has been put to good work," Peterson allowed.

The ranch is entirely supported by public donations (deductible for income tax purposes).

Contributions can be mailed to the Mississippi Sheriff's Boys and Girls Ranches, Inc., P.O. Box 369, Columbus, Ms. 39701.

A brochure for the ranch states it's purpose as being:

"To provide a good home and secure future for Mississippi's needy and worthy boys and girls; to give them love, security, discipline and all of the essential advantages that is every American boy's and girl's birthright."

The Ranch is not a 'reform school' or 'correctional institution.' Boys and girls enrolled at the Ranch are there simply because they need a good home because they are the innocent victims of neglect or lack of opportunity."

On eligibility, the brochure states, "Each boy or girl who meets the mental and physical requirements must also be approved by the sheriff and juvenile court judges of the county which he or she resides."

Shaw, in talking about the horse at the ranch, commented, "We have Topside Mastermind, the retired National Champion, and Madallion as Morgan breeders and both are standing at stud."

Ladner's record of 806 wins and 249 losses in 28 seasons has yet to be confirmed as the top national record for an active coach.

Ladner was honored March 30 of this year with a Roland Ladner Day at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum, an event attended by friends, relatives, politicians, and special guests from all facets of sports.

In addition, a number of state and national politicians sent their congratulations via telegrams and letters.

Ladner has also been nominated to the Mississippi Association of Coaches Hall of Fame, but Blackwell said it is doubtful the HNC skipper will receive that distinction this year.

Springwood road fixed after resident gripes

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

District One Supervisor Bert Courge has ditched and is now grading a Springwood Park Subdivision roadway after receiving complaints from an area resident.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Meyers are one of some six families living at the end of Nazberry Street in the Springwood Park Subdivision.

The subdivision is located just south of US-90 along the southeast National Space Technology Laboratories' acoustic buffer zone border.

Meyers recently reported, "Nazberry Street is washed out in one spot and a culvert has collapsed at the end of the road right off of Oak Street."

Meyers also reported he has made several requests asking for road repairs without any response.

However, a Sea Coast Echo inspection of the road Monday found ditching work underway on Nazberry Street.

The collapsed culvert was evident and the washed out area of the street was being filled with dirt from the ditches.

Courge said Tuesday the subdivision was built prior to any county subdivision regulations which would have set requirements for the roads and culverts.

Mrs. Meyers reported Monday, "A county school bus hit the washed out area of the road and turned on its side. My husband had to use a truck and pull the bus out."

When queried about the bus accident, Courge and County Superintendent of Education Billy D. Sills said they had no knowledge of the bus accident.

Courge explained, "That subdivision is at the edge of Devil's Swamp and when you get a flood and rain, there's nowhere for the water to go."

"Meyers obtained a lot at the end of Nazberry Street, but I'm not even sure the street has been dedicated as a county road. I maintain the road because a school bus has to go down it," Courge reported.

"For all I know those people at the end of the road may be living in the NSTL 'buffer zone,' the supervisor added.

"Nazberry Street runs off of Oak Street about one-half mile west into the Devil's Swamp," Courge stated.

"At times I've seen water up to the Meyers' trailer floor (which is about four-feet off the ground) during a flood and I told him the county would probably come out cheaper buying him a lot on a road that wasn't so hard to maintain," the supervisor added.

The main road into Springwood Park (Oak Street) use to be dirt and I blacktopped the one-mile street several years ago," Courge reported.

"I would love to cap all the county roads and generally we try to put a little gravel to help stabilize these roads, but the first time it rains Nazberry Street will get a little slick and then it will stabilize," Courge reported on the quality of Nazberry Street improvements.

Courge also reported he would replace the collapsed culvert.

When asked about the washed out area of the road Courge said, "A culvert in that area was blocked, but I don't think it will help much to stop the erosion problem."

"That area is not that low, but there's no drainage there. The Devil's Swamp is shaped like a bowl and it holds water and backs up. If the water is above the road the culvert won't do any good," Courge explained.

"International Paper Co. applied for a permit to drain the swamp to allow them to tree farm that area. This would help the drainage problem in the Springwood Park area," the supervisor said.

Man says image is face of Christ

By RICH ADAMS

The image on a discolored wall is not very clear, but with a little imagination and straining of eyes, the darkened image of a bearded man can be perceived there where a calendar once stood.

Frank Lewis, 50, operator of McLeod's Grocery Store in Kiln, says the image is that of Jesus Christ and appeared on the wall some two weeks ago as an answer to his prayers.

Lewis and his wife, Virgie, live in a small house off Texas Flat Road across the street from the grocery store.

Lewis said he was despondent two weeks ago because he is unemployed and did not seem to be "making it."

Lewis prayed that the Lord show Himself to reaffirm that He was still with the former seaman.

That same day, Lewis removed a 1978 calendar from the discolored wall and in a light section which the calendar covered, he says he sees the face of Jesus.

"It took me about two weeks to decide whether or not to tell anybody, but I think this is a blessing and should be seen by others," Lewis said Tuesday.

"I don't want to show the image for commercial purposes, but because I believe it is a blessing I would like to share it with as many people as possible," he explained.

"If you look at the image for a long time, and with a little imagination, you can see the same outline which is on the Shroud (of Turin), except this image does not have a moustache or thorns in His forehead," Lewis added.

Lewis, originally from Mobile, Ala., moved here in 1969 following Hurricane Camille. He and his wife, the former Virginia McLeod, will celebrate their fifth wedding anniversary August 1.

He was brought up as a member of the First Assembly of God until he was 13 when his father died, but Lewis said he still "reads the Bible every day" and has an unquestionable faith in God.

Lewis said Tuesday he has seen Jesus in dreams on several occasions, and once was visited by the Lord.

"That was in 1959, after I made my last call at sea," the retired seaman said.

"I went to my room on the back porch of my mother's boarding house in Mobile, and lay back in my bed and stared at the ceiling," Lewis continued.

"I heard a knock on my door, and when I answered, there was Jesus. I could see him; just like I can see you now. It wasn't a dream and I wasn't asleep," he said Tuesday.

"He did not say a word; just spread His hands as if to say, 'follow Me,' so I did," Lewis explained.

"We went up. I saw people's heads, but a cloud-like vapor covered them from the shoulders down. I felt like I was on a cloud, but my feet were on solid ground," he continued.

"I didn't recognize anyone, and the next thing I knew I was back in the bedroom. Jesus was gone, and everything was normal again," Lewis said.

"I was wide awake throughout the whole thing," he added.

Lewis told of what he calls a "miracle" while he was at sea on a small boat during a harrowing storm.

"I was on the deck in 25-foot waves trying to loop a rope over a piling so we could sit out the storm. It was freezing, and I knew I could not last much longer," Lewis said.

"Every time a wave would lift the boat near the post I would try to connect the rope, but I kept missing. My hands were almost frozen," he continued.

"I prayed to the Lord to let me hoop the rope on the post, and all of a sudden the boat was lifted by the water and stayed there. The waves were rising and falling all around, but we were staying still on top of a column of water," Lewis explained.

"I had time to loop the rope over the post, and then I realized my legs were caught in the coils. If the boat would have gone down with a wave, I would be lost at sea, but the boat stayed up until I got myself loose," he continued.

"When I got back in the cabin, the captain, who saw the whole thing, asked me if the boat had actually stopped on top of the water," he said.

"I couldn't talk because my face felt frozen from the cold weather. When I finally talked, we both said it was a miracle," Lewis added.

Lewis said he and his companion were "completely sober" at the time, and afterward bragged about the incident.

"It is alright to brag about Him, but not about ourselves," Lewis said.

"God always answers my prayers in one way or another. I am always able to make it one way or another, without ever hurting anybody else," he said.

rain water until a curb was placed on Main Street, which runs in front of the clothing store.

Now the lot no longer drains water, the councilman explained.

Councilman Harry Farve suggested the board try to negotiate work on the parking lot in conjunction with two easements on land belonging to the family of the shop owner.

"Anthony has been suffering with that lot for two years. Let's get the work done now," Benvenuti stated.

Thrillfield moved that the council request a temporary easement for construction purposes, which was seconded by Benvenuti and approved by the council.

Burglary, larceny, theft charges filed by sheriff

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Two drug violation arrests were made early Saturday morning after a surveillance by the Hancock Sheriff's Department, according to Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

"Our office had been receiving complaints about drug and alcohol violations on the parking lot of Henley's Place, Highway 603," Peterson reported.

The sheriff added, "We spent about 30 minutes surveying the parking lot early Saturday morning and saw two people roll some smokes so we arrested them. There must have been more than 50 people milling around."

Douglas H. Ladner, 27, Rt. 1, Box 401, Saucier, was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana and also charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. The other arrested was a 17-year-old juvenile, who was turned over to the Youth Court, Peterson said.

Sheriff Peterson, Investigators Alvin Ladner and Delbert Seay, Deputy Nathan Hoda and Auxiliary Deputy Floyd Frickie made the arrests.

Peterson also reported that Deputy Fairley Necaise was on a routine patrol Monday morning and saw a suspect breaking into a van parked at the intersection of I-10 and Hwy. 603.

Necaise arrested Douglas G. Mayes, 26, 4512 Texas Ave., Gulfport and he is charged with grand larceny for the alleged stealing of tools valued at $300. Mayes is incarcerated in Hancock County Jail under $5000 bond. Investigator Alvin Ladner is in charge of the case.

A May 31 burglary of the residence of Mrs. Irma Cuevas, Pearlinton, has been apparently solved with the arrest of two persons by the New Orleans Police Department.

Sheriff Peterson commented, "Numerous household items were taken from the Cuevas residence. Alert neighbors called in a tag number of a suspicious vehicle. We had the New Orleans police check the vehicle out and they arrested two suspects on June 9."

Kevin Behre, 20 and Rickey Wright, 26, both of 6028 Arts St., New Orleans, were arrested by the New Orleans Police who recovered a .32 caliber pistol allegedly taken from the Cuevas home Peterson said.

"The New Orleans police have indictated they think they have solved several burglaries there and also recovered some quantity of marijuana," Peterson said.

"The two arrested gave a statement to New Orleans police and we hope to make recovery of other items taken," according to the sheriff.

Deputies Marc Ohman, Ronnie Cuevas, Investigators Alvin Ladner and Delbert Seay and Peterson are working on the case.

Deputy Dennis Tartavouille and Deputy Clerk Gloria Tartavouille were off duty and on their way home Sunday when they saw a suspicious subject get into one of the new cars at Schuffert Pontiac, Peterson said.

"The subject left the car lot in the new Pontiac Trans Am and Tartavouille gave chase. He was unable to catch the new Trans Am, but was able to apprehend a second person who was allegedly an accomplice.

"After the woman was caught, the man turned-around and returned the new car to the lot and was also apprehended by Tartavouille as he fled on foot," Peterson commented.

Jesse Lee Ayers, 33, 1221 Springwood, Pascagoula, and Shirley Ann Surrent, 1710 Dog River Drive, Mobile, are both charged with the alleged theft of the Trans Am and both are in Hancock Jail under bond set at $10,000 each, Peterson stated.

Investigator Delbert Seay is investigating officer and the two are scheduled to appear before Justice Court Judge Bruce Necaise next Wednesday.

Nursery blaze investigated

By RICH ADAMS

A fire which destroyed a garden nursery in Kiln is being investigated by the Hancock County Fire Investigation Squad, according to Diamondhead Fire Safety Administrator Ed Friloux.

Friloux, also a member of the recently-formed investigative body, said when his unit arrived at the Red Bird Sanctuary off Kiln-DeLisle Road late Saturday night, the building was totally engulfed in flames.

Friloux explained the investigative unit is examining the ruins of the building to determine the cause of the blaze.

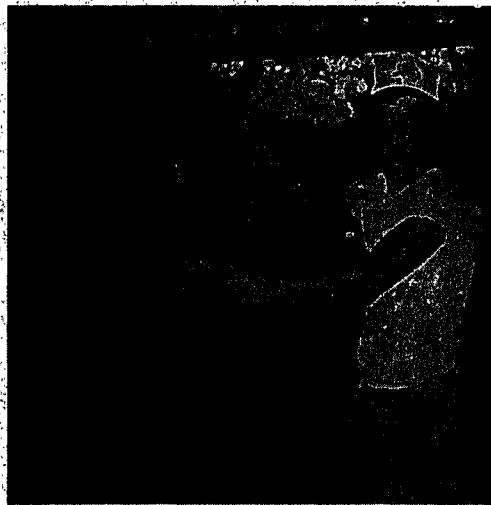

"We do this in every fire. This does not mean we suspect arson," Friloux said Wednesday.

The fire investigation team is the first of its kind in Mississippi, comprised of three deputized fire experts to determine the cause of blazes.

"We know about fires, but before we were not allowed the same investigative freedom as lawmen. Lawmen have the freedom, but do not know how to extinguish a fire correctly," Friloux said.

"Hancock County Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson recently deputized Waveland Fire Chief Kenneth Fayard, Hancock County Fire Investigator Jay Marsh, and myself to allow us this freedom of investigation," the safety officer continued.

"We now investigate every blaze in Hancock County," he added.

Sills reported, "A couple of weeks ago we hired a certified librarian for Charles B. Murphy."

The committee cites at Gulfview Elementary School that:

—Fifteen percent of the professional personnel do not hold Class AA certification;

—Teachers in grades one-four are not provided with 150-minutes of unassigned time each week;

—Continued practice of inter-school competitive sports programs which is of a varsity pattern.

Sills said, "We have hired one teacher with a master's degree and we need to hire two more."

"The second deficiency will be corrected with better scheduling," Sills stated.

At Hancock North Central Elementary School the committee found that:

—A first-grade classroom is located in a converted book room. The space is quite inadequate and is in violation of standards;

—Two special education classes are located in one portable unit. The space is inadequate and is in violation of standards;

—Inadequate facilities are provided for administrative offices, teacher's workroom and lounge.

Sills reported, "All of the deficiencies at HNC Elementary will be corrected with the new handicapped-administrative facility we are now planning."

The committee discovered at HNC Junior-Senior High School that:

—Classroom space for special education is not adequate;

—Inadequate space for teacher's workroom, administrative offices and teacher's lounge.

Sills said, "The Junior-Senior High problems will also be corrected when the handicapped-administrative facility is completed."

"It is incumbent on the school board and the staff to meet these standards. We have eleven priorities to consider," the superintendent stated.

"If you recommend discontinuance of interschool sports I have one or two things to recommend," Sills said.

"We're in the process of correcting several of the deficiencies and we have hired a certified librarian," Sills reiterated.

"We will also have to hire additional music and art teachers, guidance counselors and additional office personnel," Sills reported.

"Services for exceptional children should also be expanded," Sills said.

"We need six more special education teachers, but we don't have the rooms for them... and I don't like using trailers," the superintendent reported.

"We need to expand our remedial reading program to the seventh and eighth grades... and a better schedule can put those additional reading classes in," Sills explained.

Sills read from page 20 of the committee report, "It is the opinion of the committee that the most crucial issue facing the district is the provision of facilities which are adequate to properly implement the instructional program."

The report further states, "The facilities needed could be provided through additional construction and renovation of existing facilities at the present school site."

"However, a reasonable and more educationally sound alternative may well lie in the construction of a new elementary school on a separate campus in the Hancock North Central Zone and the renovation of the existing Hancock North Central facilities in order to adequately accommodate the junior and senior high school programs," the report says.

"In the southern portion of the county the committee would suggest that serious consideration be given to the construction of a new secondary school which would serve grades seven-12," the committee reports.

"The construction of such a facility would eliminate the present long bus routes for these students and would create space at both Charles B. Murphy and Gulfview. This additional space could be utilized to provide for a much needed expansion of the elementary school media centers and would provide room for additional programs which should be added," the committee concludes.

School Board President Woodrow Ladner asked Sills, "Where do we stand on Educational Finance Commission programs and what stops us from building a new school?"

Sills replied, "Land and money."

Ladner said, "We can get the land if we can get the money."

Sills explained, "I've worked on this project and the people in Jackson said our school system has 92 percent attendance."

Board Member Monvel Cuevas stated, "Before we do anything let's get this approved by the state."

Ladner said, "We've got to have more space at Charles B. Murphy and Gulfview. Let's try to get a high school, but if we could get enough money for seventh-ninth grades it would alleviate some problems."

Sills stated, "I'll begin working on this tomorrow."

Regarding the elimination of fifth and sixth grade interschool sports, Sills said, "I don't want to see any students in Hancock County not properly supervised in sports and I don't want to see them running the roads either."

"If the booster clubs or the parent-teacher organizations will handle fifth and sixth grade sports programs and the money they spend is from these organizations—sports can be continued," Sills explained.

"If they supply the uniforms and equipment, these programs can continue," the superintendent added.

"I think we need to keep our children off the street and out of trouble," Sills reiterated.

Ladner said, "Then parents will say we are not giving their child a fair chance in sports."

Sills further explained, "The coaches can still continue the programs after school."

Ladner said, "Then the little people could still play sports."

Sills reiterated, "If the booster clubs take these activities over, then they can do whatever they want to."

Ladner suggested, "Let's look into this."

Cuevas explained, "All this report says is that children can't play sports among schools. We're going to have to comply if we want to get accredited."

Sills added, "This should have been done five years ago."

Ladner suggested, "I think the coaches should help these little people."

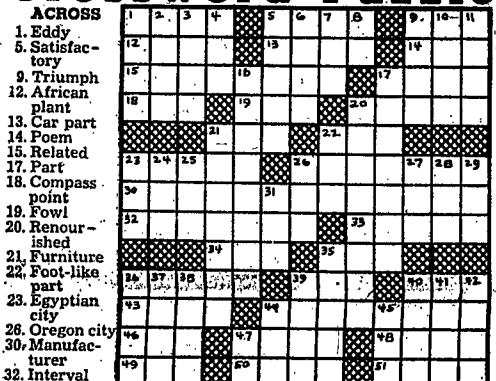

Federal Coordinator Harlin Hill reported, "I'm exploring the possibility of constructing a facility for a vocational-technical school... but this doesn't mean you can't add some classrooms to this."

"I'm working on this through the Commerce Department, but it will take eight-nine months for the project to be completed... there's a lot of leg work involved," Hill said.

Board Member Oris Ladner asked, "Would this interfere with a new high school?"

Hill replied, "No, but it would have to be called a vocational-technical school."

Have you ever wondered why all fish don't look alike? Why there are so many different kinds — nearly 17,000 species — living?

Fish all live in water, therefore they should probably all be similar in appearance. Instead, fish come in hundreds of shapes and thousands of colors.

There are three basic reasons why fish have varied shapes and colors, according to Mercury outdoors' fishing department.

These include the need to get food, protection against enemies and to aid in reproduction.

Shape is one kind of adaptation which can be understood by comparing different fish with the kinds of water they inhabit.

Trout, for example, live mostly in fast water. They must have streamlined bodies which cause little resistance in the water.

A bluegill sunfish, on the other hand, has a round, flat shape which is ideal for the calm water in which it lives, but would be impossible for living in a swift mountain stream.

Color also plays a role in adaptation. Consider the flounders which match their color to the bottom of the sea for protection. They will also attempt to mimic patterns.

A flounder placed on a checkerboard will try (with some degree of success) to copy the pattern beneath it — almost instant adaptation to its surroundings.

The next time you catch a fish, take a few minutes to study its color and shape.

Pearlington man named top teacher

K.W. (Jake) Jacobs of Pearlington has been chosen by the American Psychological Association (APA) as the recipient of their 1980 outstanding teacher award for College University teachers.

Dr. Jacobs, who teaches psychology at Loyola University in New Orleans, is an associate professor and was nominated for the award by Loyola's chapter of Psi Chi, the national honor society in psychology.

He is receiving the award for his outstanding performances as a teacher, his influence in interesting students in psychological research, and his development of effective teaching methods.

Jacobs, who received his doctorate from the University of Southern Mississippi in May of 1975, has been teaching psychology at Loyola since that year. In addition to his own research interests, he has co-authored six articles with undergraduate students, and has served as the faculty sponsor of Loyola University's chapter of Psi Chi for the past four years.

His areas of specialty include: psychological psychology, behavior therapy, sexual behavior, human aging, and experimental design-statistics.

Jacobs received his master's degree in psychology from Eastern Ill. and graduated from the university of Northern Iowa with a bachelor's degree in psychology.

The award will be announced in September at the 1980 meeting of the American Psychological Association to be held in Montreal. The award will also be reported in the October issue 'Teaching of Psychology.'

YOU AND YOUR PET

By Robert L. Steer, D.V.M.
Manager of Veterinary Services
Norden Laboratories

Few pets take medication willingly. Most pet owners use either trickery or physical force to send tablets and liquids down a pet's throat.

One popular ruse involves concealing medication within the pet's favorite food. Tablets and capsules are easily hidden in small balls of chopped beef or cooked liver. The distinctive odor of liver can help mask the chemical smell that accompanies some medications.

If you find your pet greedily eats the meat, but leaves the medicine in the food bowl or on the floor, it's time for stronger action.

The technique of "pilling" a cat or dog depends on proper placement of the tablet far back on the tongue so that the pet automatically swallows. The method has four basic steps: positioning your pet, opening its mouth, placing the medicine on the back of the tongue, and encouraging the pet to swallow.

To start, place the pet next to your left side on a smooth, slippery surface: stable top for a small pet, or a bare floor for a larger animal. This gives your pet the least opportunity to pull away. If you're medicating the animal by yourself, hold it firmly under your left arm, with the head facing forward. Otherwise, have a friend hold the pet steady.

Place your left hand over the animal's eyes: fingers on one side, thumb on the other. Gently tilt the head backward, squeezing the corners of the mouth slightly. The pet should open its mouth.

Holding the medicine between the thumb and finger of your right hand, place the dose on the pet's tongue, as far back into the throat as possible, and then close the jaws, hold them closed with the left hand, and begin to gently stroke the throat with the first fingers of the right hand, to encourage swallowing.

You should be able to see the muscles of the throat ripple slightly as the pet swallows. Until you acquire the knack of placing the tablet far enough back on the tongue, you'll need to watch your pet for a few minutes to guarantee that the medicine isn't ejected onto the floor.

If you must give your cat or dog a bad-tasting liquid, don't try to pour it down the pet's throat. The fluid may enter the lungs and cause pneumonia, or it may be splattered all over the floor.

A dog's facial skin is loose enough so that you can retract the skin at the corner of the mouth to make a small pocket. Pour the liquid from a spoon into this pocket, tip the muzzle up, and hold the dog's mouth closed. The pet will swallow shortly. A cat can also be dosed in this fashion, although the cheek pocket is smaller, and the liquid may need to be given in several increments, with time for swallowing in between.

Christ Episcopal students to attend gifted studies

A two-week summer residential program for intellectually gifted students will be held by the Center for Gifted Studies, Department of Special Education, University of Southern Mississippi, directed by Dr. Francis A. Karnes.

The program is open to any gifted student entering fifth through eighth grades in the fall of 1980. Eligibility is determined by an I.Q. score of 120 or above on an individually administered intelligence test.

Students of Christ Episcopal Day School who have been accepted and will attend the gifted students program are: Josh Bowles; Frank Burdette; Hunt Caraway; Stephanie Ewing; Michael Neely; Nicole Montagnet; Stephen Montagnet; Susannah Shellnut.

The program is designed for intellectually gifted students with emphasis placed on enhancing their cognitive, affective and psychomotor abilities.

For grades fifth and sixth the program will be 'MAN: MIRROR OF THE ARTS.'

It is a comparative study of the arts and artists, musicians, painters, etc. through the ages. Special emphasis will be given to the relationship between the arts and the progress of mankind as a whole.

Grades seventh and eighth will ponder the question "What are Man's Needs?" Psychological, intellectual, social and emotional needs must be met before man's efforts can be channeled into a productive future. A study of psychology will give the student understanding and appreciation of his inner needs as well as practical suggestions on how to improve his own learning processes.

A most important feature of this program will be the student's opportunity to interact with other gifted students from other localities within the state of Mississippi.

Corps' hydroelectric plants open for tours

The Army Corps Engineers is putting on an electrifying show this summer, and all America is invited to attend. The Corps' Mobile District operates eight hydroelectric plants which last year alone provided more than two billion kilowatt hours of electricity: enough energy to power 125,000 homes continuously or 500,000 homes during peak periods.

This summer Corps personnel will conduct guided tours through the plants, which are located in Alabama, Georgia and Florida. In addition, all but one of the plants have visitor lobbies which are open to the public. The visitor lobbies contain displays on hydroelectric power, models of the dam and powerhouse, photographs of Corps water projects as well as brochures and other literature.

Visitor lobbies generally are open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. (These hours may vary slightly at different projects. Walter F. George does not have a visitor lobby.) Group tours of the dams and powerhouses are available between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Arrangements for group tours should be made at least one week in advance. Tours cover the project from top to bottom, lasting from 30 to 45 minutes. Tours also may be arranged for "drop in" visitors if personnel are available to conduct them. (A 2 p.m. tour is planned each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at West Point.)

Below is a list of the eight power projects and their locations, as well as names, addresses and telephone numbers of project superintendents:

- Allatoona-Buford-Carters Power Project. Curtis G. Love, superintendent. (404) 334-2040. Rt. 3, Box 165-C, Chatsworth, GA 30705.
- Allatoona, Buford and Carters are in northwestern Georgia. Allatoona is located on Highway 41 south of Cartersville, Georgia. Buford Dam is located at Lake Sidney Lanier, six miles west of Buford, Georgia. Carters is located on Highway 41, 11 miles south of Chatsworth, Georgia.

-Walter F. George-West Point Power Project. Grayson M. Royston, superintendent. (912) 768-2635. Shorterville, AL 36373. Water F. George Lock and Dam is on the Chattahoochee River on the Alabama-Georgia border. It is on Alabama state Highway 10, 14 miles east of Abbeville, Alabama.

-West Point is on the Alabama-Georgia border, 3 miles north of West Point, Georgia, on State Line Road. -Jim Woodruff Powerhouse. James W. Johnson, Jr., superintendent. (904) 663-2291. P.O. Box 65. Chattahoochee, FL 32324. Jim Woodruff Lock & Dam is at Lake Seminole on the Georgia-Florida border, one mile north of Chattahoochee, Florida.

Communication skills developed at USM

As the percentages of high school graduate attending college rises, larger numbers of improperly prepared students are included. Many of these students have performed poorly in college in the past despite high ability because they did not speak, write, read or listen effectively enough.

"Studies have shown that educational success depends heavily on the ability to speak and write in standard English," said Dr. Stan Gwin of the University of Southern Mississippi, who has been coordinating a distinctive training program, Project Access, to help these students develop communication skills.

A number of such training programs at other universities have failed, according to Gwin, a professor in the Department of Speech Communication, which along with the Departments of English, Theatre and Reading have been working on the successful USM program.

Sixty percent of these students who need to develop stronger communication skills normally drop out of school, but if they receive this training their first two semesters at college, they stand a better chance of staying and doing better in their majors," he said.

"In three years of the project every student who has stayed through the whole program is in school and passing."

Aspects of the program include standard English writing skills, voice and dictation labs, reading and oral presentation and non-verbal communication, all coordinated and interrelated and coming in the first year of college.

"An important feature of the program is that students write, read and speak about topics personal development," Gwin said.

When the communication skills are taught in concert instead of spread out over a large period the students improve faster and more remain in school.

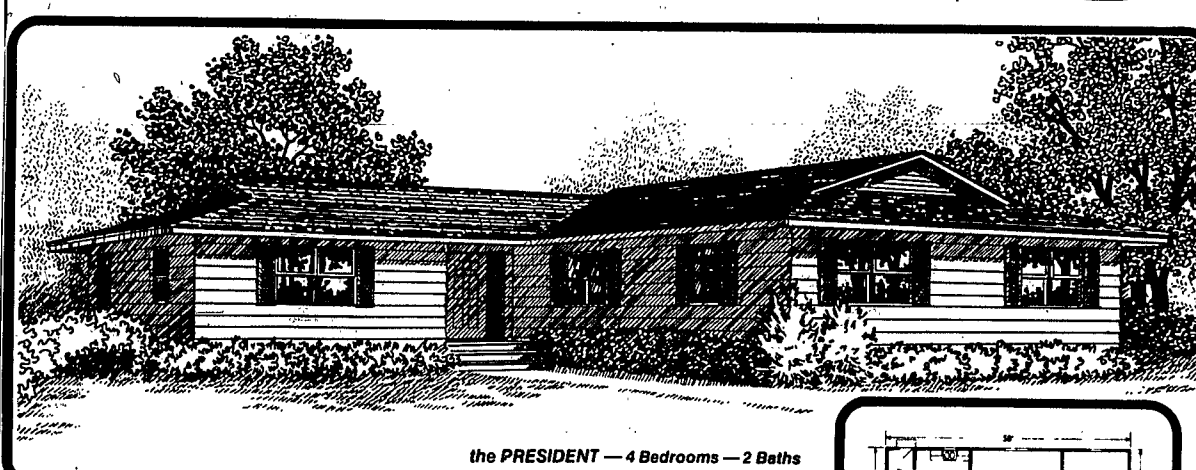

One of the aims of Project Access is the improvement of the student's attitude and the project has shown that students after completing the courses are more calm, confident and polished in their use of the language.

Students in the program show a more mature language level than similar students not involved in it and surveys given the students indicated a strong growth in personal confidence.

"Project Access has demonstrated that simultaneous concentrated training in communication skills at the beginning of the college career significantly improves the performance of students whose ACT scores were low," he said.

A paper by Gwin in the pilot year of the project has been accepted to be read at the International Communication Association meeting in Acapulco this month.

the PRESIDENT — 4 Bedrooms — 2 Baths

Have you been stymied trying to find financing to build on your property? There's no such problem at Jim Walter Homes... and it won't cost you an arm and a leg. Jim Walter can build and finance your new home for only 10% annual percentage rate, not the 11 1/2% that you would have to pay for an F.H.A. mortgage, or even more for conventional financing. And, with Jim Walter mortgage financing, there are NO points and NO closing costs. You only pay for what you get. And, with our almost instant service, credit approval is usually only a matter of a day or two, not the red-tape delays that can take up to a month or more with so many financing institutions.

Let us show you the more than 20 homes from which you may choose. Let us give you complete facts and low building costs. Let us show you how you can save money... lots of it... by doing some or all of the inside finishing yourself. Let us show you the Jim Walter way... how we will finish your home to almost any stage, from the "shell" (unfinished inside) up to 90% complete. You can tell us how much of the interior to do, then you take over and finish the rest. Do the electrical, finish the wallboard, install the inside doors and trim. The more you do for yourself, the more you'll save. It's the Jim Walter way for you to have more home for less money.

So if you own property and want to build a new home, come to where 10% annual percentage rate financing is no problem. Come to where the cost of building is low and the value is high. Come to Jim Walter Homes for no-obligation information and the cost of building on your property. Call, stop by, or send the coupon to our nearest display park today.

Homes built on your property to almost any stage from the shell up to 90% complete.

PRC Trustees hike tuition

Pearl River Junior College's Board of Trustees has approved a fee increase for the coming fall-spring semesters. At the regularly scheduled May meeting, the Pearl River Board voted to up the basic matriculation fee from the $145 figure to $180 per semester in addition to increasing all college fees an average of 11 percent.

"We really have no alternative," said Greg Mitchell, chairman of the PRC board. "If we are to remain in the black financially, we must pass along some of the inflation cost to the students."

Mitchell pointed out that the essential costs, such as lights, insurance, water and gas, continue to climb for the college just as it is doing for the private citizen.

Dr. Marvin R. White, president of Pearl River, reported that all other colleges and universities within the state have upped their fees as much and in many cases more than Pearl River.

A student attending Pearl River College this fall will pay $150 matriculation; $25 for books; and $420 for a five day meal ticket and boarding in one of PRC's six air-conditioned resident halls.

The total for a full-time academic student, living on campus is $805 per semester. Vocational-technical students will pay additional shop fees.

A commuter student will pay matriculation, books and $90 per semester bus fee which totals $265 for a semester of college work.

The Pearl River Board, at the same May meeting, also approved about an 11 percent increase for its faculty and staff as well as a new PRC salary schedule.

Other actions by the board included the hiring of several new instructors for the coming year. The list includes associate degree nursing instructors Rebecca Dale, Jane Ellen Nichols, Arlene Roberts, Valerie DeCoux, Nancy Torre, and Maxine Wainwright.

Jerome Smith was hired as the auto-mechanics instructor at the Hancock center in Bay St. Louis and Baxter White was employed as the evening math instructor at Columbia.

Leola McInnis was hired as the LPN instructor at the Forrest County center in Hattiesburg.

The resignation of Jerry Mitchell, PRC's business manager for the past four years, was accepted by the board and a claim docket of $484,237 was also approved.

The Pearl River Board also directed White to write resolutions to Dean Joyce Smith for her 19 years of service to the college and also to the Dixie Drawl for being named the number one newspaper in Mississippi.

There is no "one and only" way to make Gazpacho. There are countless variations, and debates rage over the proper method. Some like the vegetables smoothed down to a thick puree, others like the vegetables finely-diced.

There are long ways to make it, and short ways to make it, and an all-but-instant way for those who really hate to cook.

Here's M. E. (short for Mary Elizabeth) Andry's GAZPACHO

6 large, ripe tomatoes

2 cucumbers

1/4 cup chopped onion

1/4 cup chopped green pepper

1-3 cup olive oil

3 Tbsp. lemon juice

2 cups tomato juice

Dashes of salt, fresh ground pepper, hot pepper sauce.

For extra flavor, start the day before by rubbing a glass or china bowl with a clove of garlic, then discard the garlic. Early next day, peel, seed and chop fine, tomatoes and cucumbers (I don't peel mine, you may want to,) and place in the bowl.

Add the onion and green pepper, and over the mixture pour the olive oil and lemon juice, blended together. Chill several hours in the refrigerator in the "seasoned" bowl.

Just before serving, pour in the tomato juice, and add the salt, pepper and hot sauce.

Serve in chilled soup plates, with an ice cube in each bowl and sprinkled fresh parsley atop. Garnish with croutons if you wish.

For an easy blender Gazpacho, combine 1/2 cup of chopped onion, the same of green pepper and cucumber, along with a minced garlic clove, 2 cups of water and a can of condensed tomato soup, 3 Tbsp. red wine vinegar, and fourth cup of olive oil and a dash of fresh ground pepper in your blender.

Puree till velvety, chill two hours or so, served with croutons.

2 cucumbers

1/4 cup chopped onion

1/4 cup chopped green pepper

1-3 cup olive oil

3 Tbsp. lemon juice

2 cups tomato juice

Dashes of salt, fresh ground pepper, hot pepper sauce.

For extra flavor, start the day before by rubbing a glass or china bowl with a clove of garlic, then discard the garlic. Early next day, peel, seed and chop fine, tomatoes and cucumbers (I don't peel mine, you may want to,) and place in the bowl.

Add the onion and green pepper, and over the mixture pour the olive oil and lemon juice, blended together. Chill several hours in the refrigerator in the "seasoned" bowl.

Just before serving, pour in the tomato juice, and add the salt, pepper and hot sauce.

Serve in chilled soup plates, with an ice cube in each bowl and sprinkled fresh parsley atop. Garnish with croutons if you wish.

For an easy blender Gazpacho, combine 1/2 cup of chopped onion, the same of green pepper and cucumber, along with a minced garlic clove, 2 cups of water and a can of condensed tomato soup, 3 Tbsp. red wine vinegar, and fourth cup of olive oil and a dash of fresh ground pepper in your blender.

Puree till velvety, chill two hours or so, served with croutons.
